

DAVE
Flint
Assistant Coach

Dave Flint, head coach of the Northeastern University women's ice hockey team, is in his third season on the staff of the U.S. Women's National Program. He will serve as an assistant coach for Team USA through the 2010 Olympic Winter Games.

In November 2008, Flint was an assistant coach for the U.S. Women's Select Team at the 2008 Women's Four Nations Cup, where Team USA took home its first championship since 2003. Then, in April 2009, he served in the same role as the U.S. Women's National Team captured the gold medal at the IIHF World Women's Championship.

The 2009-10 season marks the third year of Flint serving as the goaltending consultant for the entire U.S. Women's National Program. At the 2008 IIHF World Women's Championship, he was on hand as the U.S. garnered its second-ever gold medal.

Before being named Northeastern's head coach prior to the 2008-09 season, Flint spent five years as head coach at St. Anselm College in Manchester, N.H., where he compiled an 88-15-2 (.848) record.

Flint arrived at St. Anselm in 2003 to take over a club team making the transition to varsity status, and he made it an immediate winner. In 2007-08, the Hawks posted their fourth straight 20-win season with a 23-2-1 record, which included a 17-1-1 mark in the ECAC East to secure first place. In their four seasons as a varsity team under Flint, the Hawks won two ECAC East regular season championships and three ECAC Open Tournament championships. Flint was recognized as ECAC East Coach of the Year and a finalist for National Coach of the Year three consecutive seasons from 2006-08. Because of its status as a non-scholarship Division II institution,

St. Anselm was not eligible to compete in the ECAC East Tournament or the NCAA Division III Tournament.

Flint produced three ECAC East Players of the Year, two ECAC East Rookies of the Year, one ECAC East Goalie of the Year, one First Team All-American and three Second Team All-Americans.

Prior to his success with the women's hockey program, Flint served as assistant coach of the St. Anselm men's ice hockey team for seven seasons. During his tenure, Flint was responsible for recruiting and coordinating the team's defense and goaltending. The Hawks won back-to-back ECAC Division II Championships from 2000-01. A certified athletic trainer and strength & conditioning specialist, Flint was also the assistant athletic trainer at St. Anselm.

Since 1999, Flint has also worked at the Superskills Training Center in Tewksbury, Mass., as the director of off-ice conditioning and assistant to the director of on-ice instruction. At Superskills, Flint instructs and trains both collegiate and professional goaltenders, including NHL goalies Peter Skudra, Andrew Raycroft and Scott Clemmensen.

A 1993 graduate of North Adams State College (now the Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts), Flint received his bachelor's degree in biology with a concentration in sports medicine. Flint was a four-year goaltender on the varsity men's ice hockey team at North Adams State and was named the team's MVP as a senior.

He and his wife, Alison, have two children, Paige and Tate. They regularly reside in Merrimack, N.H., although he will be based in Blaine, Minn., in the lead-up to the Vancouver Games.

JODI
McKenna
Assistant Coach

Jodi McKenna, head women's ice hockey coach at Wesleyan University, is serving as an assistant coach for Team USA through the 2010 Olympic Winter Games.

McKenna held the same role at the 2009 International Ice Hockey Federation World Women's Championship, where Team USA earned the gold medal. Previously, she served as an assistant coach at the 2008 USA Hockey Women's Under-22 Camp and at the 2008 USA Hockey Women's Holiday Camp.

McKenna has served for two seasons as the head coach at Wesleyan after spending nine seasons as an assistant coach at St. Lawrence University. In her nine seasons with St. Lawrence, she helped the Saints qualify for the NCAA tournament five times, making it to the Frozen Four on each occasion and playing in the title game in 2001.

A 1998 graduate of Brown University, McKenna played four seasons for the Bears, and helped the team capture an ECAC regular-season or tournament title three times. In her senior year, Brown played in the first-ever women's ice hockey national championship game, where the Bears fell to the University of New Hampshire.

A certified strength and conditioning coach, McKenna developed and monitored the year-round training program of the St. Lawrence women's ice hockey squad.

After receiving her bachelor's degree from Brown in 1998, McKenna added a master's degree from St. Lawrence in 2000.

She regularly resides in Middletown, Conn., but will be based in Minneapolis during the lead-up to the Vancouver Games.
